

Advice on Moving Forward

By Estelle Roberts 2012

People say the butterfly is a truly beautiful thing but it isn't really because if you actually look at the butterfly itself, ignore the wings, I mean the actual butterfly itself is an ugly looking thing. It's got great big eyes and long legs. It looks most ungainly but when it opens its wings it's a magnificent sight and that's the same as when you advance and you come out of your cocoon, and then you move forward into the Summerland and you think your wings have truly spread. Then you realise that you are still in a cocoon and that what you have in the Summerland is something that has to be dispensed with, and then you open your wings again and you think that you are a truly magnificent being, but you're not.

I've been really privileged. I have been up to the 5th and 6th planes but I was taken once, I was taken up to the 7th plane. Just for a peek, and if you could truly see the wondrous people, the wondrous beings who are there, the love which emanates from everybody you meet, it really does make you feel so unclean. I say that in the truly humble way because they're so white. You know "whiter than Persil white". You know really, really, really white. Did they have Persil out here? We did in England didn't we?

Yes we did.

We had Persil white. Because Persil washes whiter and it was whiter than something and I can't remember what the other one was. Not important. It is funny that people, when they are on the Earth Plane, they think that just because you've left the Earth Plane that you suddenly become very nice. You suddenly take away all the anger that was in there. Why on earth would the Great Master, the Heavenly Host, do that? If they could do that, no I have to correct that statement, they could do that, but if they wanted to do that there would be no need for all the planes or the earth or anything else would there?

They could have taken us back a long, long time, I was going to say years ago but it is more than years ago, it's eons ago. I mean they could. They could have just scooped us up. (Think we were a bit of soup wouldn't you?) Scooped us up but they didn't. They said you've got into the hole, you have to get yourself out but we won't ask you to do it by yourself. We will put our hand out and show you the way. You don't have to go up the steep path because if you go to the other side of the hole there's a stepladder and you can climb out of it on the stepladder, but if your eyes are blinkered you won't see the stepladder and you will keep trying to go up the steep slope and what happens when you try and climb the steep slope, you fall down, and that's what life is about.

If you listen to the advice that you are given then you can take the stepladder, but if you don't, you can persevere with the problems that you have and the problems that you're going to get in the future and they won't get any better, so it's a bit silly not to listen isn't it? I mean if you listen life actually becomes easier. Seems strange doesn't it that just because you have learnt to live in love and harmony with the world that your life becomes easier. Does it become easier because your situation has changed? No, it becomes easier because you have accepted the situation and life as it is.

That's what young Maurice talks about sometimes is it not, accepting the situation. I mean I call him young Maurice because he was younger than me when we were on the Earth Plane. It's the golden rule book and if you don't know the rules, how do you know where to go. If you don't know you've got to be good, you can't then be condemned because you're not. Although you can't be condemned you haven't moved forward. So just because you didn't know you had got to be good and you're bad, you're not condemned because you're bad, but equally you don't move forward.

Yes and isn't that so true with so many things that we do in our lives. We get told what to do and yet we resist.

And then we say 'yes alright we'll do it' but in our time. What have you been told? When we ask you to do something it's not for our good. I mean we don't benefit do we? But we have to give reminders. You just have to have faith in the Great Master and the Heavenly Host, or as White Eagle says Our Father in Heaven.
